Admiral George W. Anderson, Jr.
Chairman, President's Foreign
Intelligence Advisory Board
Room 340
Executive Office Building

Dear Admiral:

Thank you very much for passing along Frank Barnett's letter concerning his conversation with [] I have brought the matter to the attention of our people here.

General Graham received a similar letter from Mr. Barnett and has written indicating that he shares some of [] concerns. He feels the Russian drive to warm water is still very much alive and notes that the route through Baluchistan to Karachi is a tempting one in Moscow.

Others, in CIA, do not totally dismiss the possibility but believe the odds favoring an imminent Russian drive to obtain a corridor to the Indian Ocean are not very high. And they are, in any event, wary of [] motives. [] who has unsuccessfully sought support for his cause from a number of senior US officials in the recent past. The Department of State has now asked that US officials avoid him and politely turn down his requests for appointments.

Sincerely,

W. E. Colby
